Many New Beginnings

An AA discusses getting sober and getting remarried in sobriety n June 1986, I put down the drink. To me it was divine intervention. Someone at work reached out to me, when I was drunk, and mirrored to me how bad my drinking had gotten from his point of view. There is no reason I listened that day except the intervention of a Higher Power in my life. My willingness to quit was paralleled with an equal unwillingness to ask for any help. I began "Patrick's Recovery Program," remaining abstinent from alcohol but not living a sober and spiritual life. The quality of my life continued to deteriorate. The discord between my wife and I deepened considerably.

Letter from the Intergroup Board

Dear Fellow Colorado Springs AAs,

The Alcothon was a huge success and came in above budget. This was attributed to good weather, fun people, the generosity of our fellowship, and the concern of local AAs for adequately supporting the Colorado Springs Area Service Office.

Traditionally, intergroup program events, such as the Alcothon, have the financial objective to break even or come in a little above our budget projection.

It was brought to the intergroup board's attention that there were some irregularities in the way monies were collected and nametags were handed out. While the expressed purpose of the program committee was to respect all AA members and party-goers, some unfortunate stumbles occurred in the actual execution of the occasion.

The intergroup board regrets any discomfort experienced by AAs at the Alcothon and was at fault for these things occurring during the Alcothon. The board was not as engaged as it should have been with regard to the planning and execution of this event.

With these concerns in mind, the following actions will be taken:

- 1) The intergroup board will be more actively involved with program event planning and conduct.
- 2) We will address the problems from last year's Alcothon to ensure AA's traditions are followed and the proper respect is shown to all participants for the next Alcothon.

Very Respectfully,

The Intergroup Board

Step 5: Admitted to God, to ourselves and to another human being the exact nature of our wrongs.

Tradition 5: Each group has but one primary purpose, to carry its message to the alcoholic who still suffers.

Concept 5: Throughout our structure, a traditional "Right of Appeal" ought to prevail, so that minority opinion will be heard and personal grievances receive careful consideration.

After three years of abstinence, I left "Patrick's Recovery Program" and walked through the doors of Alcoholics Anonymous. It was a place I had avoided like it was a death sentence, but when I surrendered, I knew I was home. A gentleman name Jim G. stuck his hand out to me that evening and told me to "keep coming back, it is the best game in town, a $1 an hour." I felt the truth in what he said that day and I still do.

Fifteen months later, my marriage ended. I was unable to live a sober life and remain in that relationship. My wife who had pushed and insisted I go to AA hated it when I finally went and began working the program. My children were ages 9 to 14 at the time and during the first six months I was in the program, the police were called to the house three times. During my active days, the police were called once. I learned just as drinking has a detrimental affect on all those close to the alcoholic, so does sobriety on those close to the recovering person. It was a very challenging time to say the least. The separation agreement was one of the few things we agreed on. We would have shared custody of our children.

I did not follow suggestions and I entered another relationship two months later. When we started dating, I had about 16 months in the program and she had 26 months. We were on top of things. We were sober and mature and raring to go forward with our sober lives. After about a year or so, some heavy duty issues came up that required both individual and couple counseling.

One of my main challenges was dealing with my ex-wife and trying to co-parent with her. She did not like it when I began a new relationship. That really fueled the fire between us. My sponsor would tell me, "She does not want you and does not want anyone else to have you either." So, I was a nurturing a new relationship, being a single parent (half time), dealing with my ex, and then at 10 months sober, I had gone out on disability from my job. I had a lot of balls in the air.

Five years after we met, Karen and I got married and moved to Florida She and I worked hard and hung in there through many tough times of our sober lives together. We had to create separateness in our programs. It was hard for me at times to deal with the jealousy that came up. I would be at a meeting with her, and instead of paying attention, I would be looking at the other guys looking at her. After enough discomfort and the guidance of a sponsor, I began going to different meetings. Some time later we started attending meetings together again and it just happened, it was not an issue anymore. I have experienced similar reactions to many other things in recovery. I have found my personal growth happens when the obsession is lifted.

We were a case of boy meets girl on AA campus. There were times when we thought we would not make it, but with counseling, good sponsorship, and the use of 12 Steps in AA and other programs, we were able to grow in relationship with each other.

Karen was diagnosed with throat cancer on March 7, 2006. It was when we were presented with this challenge that all the work and growth we had done together and separately in recovery had its greatest meaning. The foundation of our lives was being rattled and shaken. Karen decided to explore alternative medicine and care. I supported her totally in that choice and we moved forward as a team.

About 8 months into treatment, she got tested and the results were mixed. We knew a more aggressive approach was needed and we were directed oversees. We had no idea how we were going to afford the trip, but we trusted it would work out. We traveled to Germany in December 2006 and did a total of 6 trips in one year. We embraced each other as we moved forward through the highs and lows, the hopes and disappointments that the course of Karen's illness brought. Our family stood by us, as well as, close friends.

One of the hardest prayers for me to say when Karen was ill was "thy will be done." My prayers were for her return to health. Karen passed on our wedding anniversary during the spring equinox. We had chosen that time to get married because we felt an affinity to Native American tradition and this date represents new beginnings. Karen's passing at the same time of year was very symbolic. She has gone on to new beginnings once again. It was some time after her passing that I realized I am also moving on to new beginnings.

I had not attended an AA meeting before Karen's passing for about 8 months. I relied on my support network and the foundation I had in AA. The day after Karen passed, I returned to my home group, raised my hand and shared about Karen and said that I needed support. I have been attending at least 1 meeting a day since then and have found the support in AA that has carried me forward through my necessary healing and nurturing. AA is the center of my recovery. Many other doors have been opened to me, but AA is the center. One of the greatest things I experience in AA now is when I go to a meeting and people are there who knew Karen.
