STEP FIVE

“Admitted to God, to ourselves, and to another human being the exact nature of our wrongs.”

Few things are more difficult for us to do than owning up to our wrongdoing, and it's especially hard to admit them out loud. This is because we may feel ashamed, guilty, or embarrassed about some of our past behaviors. It is hard to admit that our actions might have caused another person pain or hardship.

The prior step, Step Four, had us examine our past and thoroughly assess our behaviors and choices. Taking this personal inventory helped us take responsibility for our former actions. The natural next step of the process is to release those faults by sharing them with a trusted person who will listen without condemnation.

There is something very profound and beautiful about sitting with another person and admitting the things you have done that you now see were harmful or dysfunctional in some way. It may make you feel vulnerable at the time, but in your honesty, you will emerge lighter and freer to forge ahead on your recovery journey.

Step Five is not an easy one to check off the list. This step, as many of the steps do, require you to check your pride at the door. Although uncomfortable, completing Step Five is essential for maintaining long term sobriety.

“Almost none of us liked the self-searching, the leveling of our pride, the confession of shortcomings which the process requires for its successful consummation. But we saw that it really worked in others, and we had come to believe in the hopelessness and futility of life as we had been living it. When, therefore, we were approached by those in whom the problem had been solved, there was nothing left for us but to pick up the simple kit of spiritual tools laid at our feet. We have found much of heaven and we have been rocketed into a fourth dimension of existence of which we had not even dreamed.” -A.A Big Book - ‘There is a Solution’ page 25

That 'Formal' Step Five

IN MY FIRST weeks of sobriety, I read through the Twelve Steps quickly and decided that anyone with half a wit could follow those simple suggestions without any trouble. But on approaching the Fifth Step, I began to have second thoughts. I could never tell another person some of the things I had done while I was drinking. If these newfound friends in AA really knew me, they would have nothing to do with me. So I'd just keep my mouth shut about the horrors of my past, I decided, and fake it.

Within months, I attempted my first Fifth Step. Inventory notebook in hand, I recited a list of venial offenses. Of overwhelming fear, gnawing guilt, and self-hatred, I said nothing. Faking a Step is not the same as taking a Step. Consequently, nothing extraordinary happened that day. I experienced defeat.

Failure is an integral part of learning, albeit a painful part. Just as alcohol had brought me to my knees and force-fed a drop of humility into my life, so did my first encounter with the Fifth Step. The introduction of humility deflated my alcoholic ego once again, and therein lay the key to success. Forced to surrender my idea of how the Fifth Step should be worked, I began to listen more closely at meetings. Hearing other members talk so freely, honestly, and realistically about their shortcomings made it easier to begin sharing my own. As a swimmer tests the water with his toe, so I began to share my defects slowly, cautiously. Always expecting rejection and disgust, I was relieved to find only understanding, acceptance, and support.

Within a year, most of those abominations had been brought out of the closet, with the help of a good sponsor. We looked at them together, discarded the guilt and remorse, and decided here amends were due. Some months later, I took the big dive: that "formal" Fifth Step I had heard so much about. For five hours, my sponsor and I sat in his living room and talked. This was not a session of breast-beating or self-flagellation; rather, it was an honest sharing of hopes, fears, past mistakes, and realistic plans for self-improvement. Of course, there was talk of resentment, guilt, lust, jealousy, and the like; but there was also sharing of happiness, joy, gratitude, and love.

None of the Twelve Steps is an exercise in self-destruction. An honest Fifth Step is ego-deflating, yes. But only through the essential humility it provides can I begin to grow mentally, emotionally, and spiritually into the person my God would have me become.

God Shots

My mind spinning, trying to catch my breath

My heart beats almost out of my chest

Fevers rush through my body

Vibrations rattle my bones

My muscles are tense, and shaky

Sometimes the roar is deafing

Trying to find little grateful moments, in the rough seas

Little God shots to calm the noises

Tradition Five

These questions were originally published in the AA Grapevine in conjunction with a series on the Twelve Traditions that began in November 1969 and ran through September 1971. While they were originally intended primarily for individual use, many AA groups have since used them as a basis for wider discussion.

Tradition Five: Each group has but one primary purpose-to carry its message to the alcoholic who still suffers.

1. Do I ever cop out by saying, "I'm not a group, so this or that Tradition doesn't apply to me"?
2. Am I willing to explain firmly to a newcomer the limitations of AA help, even if he gets mad at me for not giving him a loan?
3. Have I today imposed on any AA member for a special favor or consideration simply because I am a fellow alcoholic?
4. Am I willing to twelfth-step the next newcomer without regard to who or what is in it for me?
5. Do I help my group in every way I can to fulfill our primary purpose?
6. Do I remember that AA old-timers, too, can be alcoholics who still suffer? Do I try both to help them and to learn from them?

AREA SERVICE OFFICE

What is the Area Service Office (ASO)? There are approximately 300 individual AA meeting groups in the El Paso County and Teller County area, also known as District 7.

The ASO strives to make AA books, literature, medallions, and other materials available for purchase by local groups. The ASO also operates Night Watch, which fields phone calls around the clock during non ASO operating hours. The ASO maintains the online website, meeting schedule, as well as facilitating Zoom meetings.

The “Programs” subcommittee of ASO puts on several area events each year, including the Long-timers Luncheon, Founders’ Day picnic, the annual Gratitude Dinner, and every New Year’s Eve the “Alcathon,” to provide an alcohol-free New Year’s Eve and New Year’s Day celebration involving meetings each hour of the event, as well as food and speaker sessions.

CONTRIBUTIONS

While contributions cover each group's rent and other expenses, the Seventh Tradition is essential to all areas of A.A. service. It is both a privilege and a responsibility for groups and members to ensure that not only their group, but also their intergroup/central office, local services, district, area, and the General Service Office remain self-supporting. The General Service Conference suggests that individual groups, through an informed group conscience, adopt a specific contribution plan tailored to meet the group's financial situation. Once the group's expenses have been taken care of the group may decide to further carry the message by sending money to the following A.A. service entities:

- The local district, which communicates directly with the groups, providing the district group conscience for the area assemblies, and serving as a link between the area delegates and the G.S.R.s.
- The area committee, which coordinates vital A.A. activities over a broad geographic area; sends a delegate to the annual General Service Conference; holds area assemblies to determine the needs of the Fellowship; and provides information at all levels of service.
- The local intergroup or central office, which may provide phone service for Twelfth Step calls and other inquiries; coordinates group activities; and facilitates A.A. literature sales, institutions work, public information, and cooperation with the professional community activities.
- A.A.'s General Service Office, which functions as a storehouse of A.A. information, communicating with members and groups around the world; publishes A.A.'s literature; and supplies information and experience to professionals and others interested.
